Project Summary Document

My website is a simple website about my interests in animations. I have a wide range of interests and love many platforms for this purpose, so I picked some for my favorite ones and put them on this website. It talks about webtoons, animes, cartoons, and studio ghibili movies. The website overall is like a prototype of something that would help people trying to get into these things by looking at what trending or well-known. It offers a free subscription, which subscribes the user to a newsletter which gives recommendations based on their selected preferences.

On the main page, we can see that the website is about webtoons and different animations as I have pictures and names mentioned. I have a sliding gallery which shows which shows what its like to be interacting with these platforms and entertainment. The webtoon page shows some of the trending webtoons mentioned on the webtoon website, and another section of the most trending webtoon in each genre. The animations page has a video about what an animation is, as well as trailers of some popular and my favorite studio ghibili movies and anime. There is also an interactive gallery of some of my childhood favorite cartoons.

Overall, this website is a mix of being about me and something that could potentially be a product to introduce users to new platforms and entertainment options.

Honestly speaking, I wasn't able to put in my 100% on this website and get it to fullfill the purpose completely, but I tried to use as many skills I have learned this year, and keep learning more while doing this final project with my schedule. I nevertheless enjoyed the project, and have many ideas for my future websites, hoping I will get the oppurtunity.

The additional elements I used for this project are:

- iframe
- Form submission
- Transitions and transform
